

ARCHER CHRISTIAN IS LAID TO REST

Impressive Funeral Service Is Attended by His Former Friends and Schoolmates.

Attended by hundreds of his former friends and schoolmates, the funeral of Archer Christian, eighteen years old, son of Andrew H. Christian, Jr., of 204 West Franklin Street, was conducted at 11 o'clock yesterday morning from St. Paul's Church. Rev. Robert W. Foreyth conducted the simple, though impressive service, and the body was borne to the grave by members of the University of Virginia football team and the closest friends of the young student.

Floral designs, sent by colleges, friends and societies, covered the casket. Tributes, significant of the general grief caused by the tragic end to a life of promise, were paid in floral form by the students of the Virginia Military Institute, the University of Virginia, Woodberry Forest High School and the United States Naval Academy, while other designs expressed the sympathy of societies and the devotion of friends and relatives.

During the service the choir sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The gallery of the church and the side aisles were filled with friends of the bereaved family, while seats in the middle aisles were reserved for relatives, more intimate friends and delegations from the University of Virginia, Georgetown University and McGuire's School.

The active pall-bearers were John M. Neff, Kemper Yancey, Landon Wellford, J. McDonald Wellford, Littleton Tazewell, Forest Q. Stanton, Joseph W. Beach, Charles Watkins, Hedley M. Bowen, Oscar Thraves, Edmund Strudwick, Charles Wortham and Robert Reynolds.

The following acted as honorary pall-bearers: Dr. E. A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; Dr. J. Carter Walker, Dr. Albert Lefebvre, H. L. Cabell, J. B. Purcell, James Caskey, Henry E. Baskerville, William H. Waite, Carter W. Branch, Otway S. Allen, Allen Porter, E. C. Leigh, Charles E. Bolling, Dr. Edward McGuire, John M. Lyons, W. R. Meredith and F. D. Williams.

PARR SEEKS TO SECURE MOIETY OF FINE PAID BY SUGAR TRUST

That Is Secret of His Activity in Stirring Up Scandal.

DEPARTMENT IS SILENT

It Will Take No Official Notice of His Controversy With Reynolds.

NEW YORK, November 16.—A new figure was introduced to-night into the controversy surrounding the investigating of frauds charged to the American Sugar Refining Company, when Edwin J. Anderson, a former superintendent of docks for the company and a close personal friend of the late Theodore O. Havemyer, announced through his attorneys that he is the man referred to by James B. Reynolds, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, as the one who gave the department the first specific information concerning the frauds. Anderson has filed claims with the customs authorities for compensation which are estimated to reach $1,000,000. For the past two years, he says, he has been engaged in furnishing evidence to the government, and it was through him, he asserts, that Richard Parr, who now figures so prominently in the case, gained his information.

The first activity came as the result of encouragement which Mr. Reynolds gave him, he says. Reviewing the case, both by means of affidavits which were made several months ago, and by verbal statements to-night, Anderson says that the American Sugar Refining Company requested his resignation after Mr. Havemyer's death in 1904, on the theory that "he knew too much." He had then been in the company's employ for thirty-two years. At that time he had no positive knowledge that frauds were being committed, but he suspected it, and as a result of investigations which he then undertook he came into possession of what he calls positive proof that the government was being defrauded of at least $500,000 a year at the single refinery where he had been employed.

When he laid his evidence before the authorities at Washington, Anderson continued, the matter was at once taken up. He made several trips to Washington, and was constantly visited by detectives, and was so far convinced that he was in danger of attack and possibly assassination that a special secret service agent was assigned to act as his bodyguard.

As does Parr, Anderson says that while his investigations were in progress he was constantly visited by detectives, and was so far convinced that he was in danger of attack and possibly assassination that a special secret service agent was assigned to act as his bodyguard.

Anderson asserts that all the important information which Parr has obtained was secured either from Anderson or from Anderson's friends and assistants.

In his affidavits Anderson quotes Parr as saying in one of their daily conferences during the month of November, 1907: "The government places a high valuation upon your services in this matter, and you will get, under the law, between 25 and 35 per cent. of all moneys recovered through this investigation."

Why Parr Is Active. WASHINGTON, D. C., November 16.—No official notice will be taken by the Treasury Department, at least for the present, of the controversy which has arisen between former Assistant Secretary James B. Reynolds, now a member of the tariff board, and Richard Parr, a deputy surveyor, attached to the New York customs house.

The meat of the controversy appears to be the desire of Mr. Parr to obtain a moiety of the fine imposed upon the Sugar Trust for the alleged frauds in the introduction of sugar into this country. It developed to-day at the Treasury Department that Mr. Parr has been constantly working on the department, and that the department has taken no action on that claim. Secretary McVeagh was not prepared to say to-day whether favorable or unfavorable action

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a history of happy, contented and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Caluminate is too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is gentle, soothing and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like it, and it does not have to be forced to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin sends you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can order it for yourself, for 25 cents and $1 a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler, of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson, of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way, and now they are all well and happy. It is the only family remedy next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

RICHARD PARR.

tion might be taken on it in the future.

It can be said on the authority of high Treasury officials that practically no change has taken place in the Sugar Trust investigations during the past few weeks. The inquiries are being conducted by the Department of Justice with such assistance as the Treasury Department may give it. James B. Reynolds, who issued a statement last night in response to the statement of Deputy Surveyor Parr, said to-day that he had nothing additional to say. Whether the Treasury Department will request or direct Deputy Surveyor Parr to withhold any further statements he may have in mind could not be ascertained. Secretary McVeagh declined to enter into the controversy in any way and would not say even that any information would be given to Mr. Parr that arguments in newspapers were distasteful to the department.

Many Are Implicated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 16.—Twenty-two assistant weighers in the New York Customs-House are known to have been implicated in or are under suspicion of a positive character in the so-called sugar trust frauds.

This is set forth in a public statement issued to-night by Chairman Black and Messrs. McIlhenny and Washburn, of the Civil Service Commission, in answer to charges to the effect that civil service appointments and removals in the New York Customs-House were at the dictum of the trust. A statement of the commissioners is largely argumentative, designed to show the care which is taken in the preparation and rating of examination papers, how by reason of the methods in vogue it is practically impossible for the commissioners' examiners in Washington to show favoritism in rating the authority given appointing officers to examine thoroughly into the antecedents of eligibles and the power of removal enjoyed by them if they had or believed they had grounds for removal.

Answering in detail the charges, the commission says they have been of the most general character, and no name has been mentioned in connection with them of any person who is of the commission's force. The information regarding the twenty-two assistant weighers came from the New York Customs-House. Two of the assistant by certification from 1885 to 1907. There are now employed at New York 128 assistant weighers.

Rated in Washington.

The examination by which these assistant weighers have been chosen during fifteen years' time, says the commission, have all been prepared and rated at Washington. The examinations themselves are conducted by the local board at New York or elsewhere. The commission sets out how careful it has been in ascertaining the personal character of applicants for assistant weighers' positions, requiring information which embodied substantial history of their past careers and vouchers certifying to their worth.

Touching the right of removal by appointing officers, the civil service rules limit the commission in its right of inquiry in such cases to those in which the allegation is made, with some show of support, that the removal was for political or religious reasons.

Plead Not Guilty.

NEW YORK, November 16.—A plea of not guilty to the indictments charging them with conspiracy and effecting and aiding in effecting entries of sugar at this port by false weights was entered to-day by James P. Ben derago, former general manager and superintendent of the Williamsburg plant of the American Sugar Refining Company, and six minor employees of the company jointly indicted with him.

Attorneys for the indicted men served notice that they reserved the privilege of substituting demurrers to the plea made to-day and applying for an adjournment or removal of trial on the ground that the present state of public feeling rendered it impossible for their clients to obtain a fair trial.

The pleadings were made before Judge Hough, of the United States Circuit Court, who fixed next Monday as the time for argument on the demurrers and motions for postponement or change of venue if either are made. In the event of motions and demurrers being overruled, then November 30 was fixed as the date and Judge Martin as the judge before whom the case is to be tried.

Ben derago's bail of $5,000 was continued until November 30.

THANKSGIVING.

It's a good plan to have at least one day in each year set apart for National Thanksgiving—to bring vividly to mind the blessings and joys of life. It's better yet to make every day a Thanksgiving.

Now it may be a bit fanciful, but doubtless while we're giving thanks for all the good things of life, those of us whose feet are shod in CROSSETT Shoes will remember them as not the least among those lesser things that help to "Make Life's Walk Easy."

"SWEETLY DELICATE BLUE"

RUINED BY FEET AT SHOW

Woman Complains That Her Finery is Wrecked by Horrid Men Whose Shoes Occupy Part of Chair During Play.

Men who have protested violently against the big hats and exaggerated coiffures of the women in front of the theatrical performances have succeeded in carrying their point to such an extent that rarely if ever is there a single feather or rat in evidence to obstruct the stage view. All along there has been no kick from the women by way of reciprocity, although, according to a letter received by The Times-Dispatch yesterday, there is good reason for one from many women patrons, not because their view is obstructed, but on account of the fact that many a dainty gown is ruined for all time by masculine feet that are thrust into the seats in front, a practice of which at least nine out of every ten men who go to the theatres—and some of the women, for that matter—will admit that they are guilty.

The author of the communication, who signs herself "Many Suffering Women," though she was too modest to sign her real name, is the first one to make formal complaint, but she declares that hundreds of others are suffering the same, both in spirit and purse, because of this masculine indiscretion, which may be due to thoughtlessness or lack of consideration.

The writer goes on to say: "I have suffered much in this way. My only evening dress, a sweetly delicate blue, trimmed with lace, is made hopeless, as it will not clean, by the imprint of two manly feet. At Niblo's lecture on Scotland I three times turned and asked a man behind to remove his feet from a seat I had paid for. He treated it as a joke, but it is no fun for a girl who has to work and then make her own little finery."

In closing she suggests modestly that one of the long pins used to fasten on the much maligned Merry Widow skirt in the offending pedal extremities as a mild reminder of man's inhumanity. It is understood that legislation against this evil will be one of the primary planks in the suffragette platform, and that soon signs will be posted in all the large playhouses asking masculine patrons to keep their feet beneath their own seats.

Taft Goes Horseback Riding.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 16.—Following folk for the time being because of the press of official matters which keep him at the White House until late in the afternoon, President Taft is taking daily horseback rides, usually going in grounds south of the White House and along the shores of the river in Potomac Park. His companion yesterday and to-day was Captain Archibald W. Butt, military aide.
